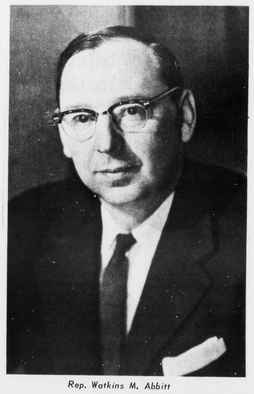
Abbitt Will Seek Reelection

In House 22 Years



Rep. Watkins M. Abbitt

Representative Watkins M. Abbitt, Virginia's Democratic party chairman, put an end to speculation Sunday by announcing he will seek re-election to Congress from the 4th Congressional District.

The 61-year-old congressman, who has served in the House the past 22 years, had seriously considered bowing out and had indicated as much months ago. But he finally gave into the insistence of his conservative associates and decided to seek another term.

Peter M. Axson, 49, commonwealth's attorney of the city of Chesapeake, already had announced he would seek the Democratic nomination for Abbitt's seat.

An announced Republican candidate is Dr. James M. Helms, 42, a professor of history and social sciences at Longwood College.

As if expecting Abbitt's announcement, Axson had said Saturday night the congressman's decision "does not change my plans at all. I am in the race until a decision is made by the voters.

Abbitt said Sunday he had no preference on how the nomination should be made. He said it is up to the district Democratic committee to decide whether to follow the usual primary route or hold a convention.

In a brief statement from his home here, Abbitt said:

"After mature consideration I have decided to be a candidate for re-election to Congress and will seek the Democratic nomination.

"I have been urged to do this by many, many people from all sections of the district. Feeling that I can render a real service at this time, I think it is my duty to bow to their wishes."

Representative Abbitt, a native of Appomattox, was graduated from Appomattox High School in 1925 and attended the University of Richmond and graduated from its Law School with an LL.B. degree in 1931. His practice of law, begun in Appomattox in 1931, led to his selection as County's Commonwealth's Attorney in 1932 and in that position he served continuously until he was elected to Congress in 1948.

He is a member of the House Agriculture Committee and is chairman of the Tobacco Subcommittee and a member of the Peanut Subcommittee. His interests have extended to various other commodities as well and he has been an advocate of measures to better the lot of the small farmer. He has been particularly active in connection with such things as rural electrification, soil conservation, forestry and crop insurance. For five years he served as a member of the Awards Committee of the American Forestry Association.

He is also a member of the House Administration Committee and of several of its subcommittees.

New Superintendent Named At Park

The appointment of Frank A. Gould as Superintendent of Appomattox Court House National Historical Park, Virginia, has been announced by J. Leonard Volz, Director of the Southeast Regional office of the National Park Service in Richmond, an agency of the U.S. Department of the Interior.

Gould, 31, succeeds Alvoid L. Hector who recently was transferred to the superintendency of Shiloh National Military Park, Tennessee.

A graduate of Davidson College, North Carolina, Gouldbegan his career in the National Park Service in 1962 as a Park Historian at Colonial National Historical Park, Virginia. In 1963 he was transferred to Fort Donelson National Military Park, Tennessee. Since 1967he has been Assistant Chief Park Historian at Colonial National Historical Park, Virginia.

Married, with three children, Gould expects to report to his new assignment about February 26.

Sign-Up In Progress

Farmers in Appomattox county were reminded that sign-up for the 1970 feed grain and wheat programs began Monday, Feb. 2, at the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) Office. The sign-up period will continue through March 20.

Objectives of these voluntary farm programs include strengthening and stabilizing farm prices, and keeping production in line with demand.

J. P. Alvis, Jr., Chairman of the Appomattox County ASC Committee, said wheat and feed grains occupy over half the harvested cropland in the United States. He commented that Secretary of Agriculture Clifford M. Hardin has testified before a Congressional Committee that the farm programs for these commodities affect most farmers and set the pattern for other commodity programs.

Investment Club Marks 10th Anniversary

The Appomattox Investment Club celebrated a tenth anniversary with "ladies night" and dinner Tuesday evening.

The club was organized February 23, 1960 and has met each 4th Tuesday night since to become acquainted with companies offering stocks and bonds for sale, and to invest a small amount each month or so in a company agreed to by vote of the group.

All dividends, stock splits, etc. are retained by the club as a partnership. The club, say the members, provides an education in how economic forces function, and provides a congenial club for members. The late Senator Charles Thomas Moses was an original member. There have been no other changes in the organizing group which includes W. S. Gills, W. E. Jamerson, Robert E. Jamerson, R. M. Ferguson, T. E. Evans, C. G. O'Brien, J. C. Cole, M. A. Herncall, M. L. Webb, E. W. Carson, J. S. Grinels, J. A. Smith, J. N. Jennings, Judge G. F. Abbitt, all of Appomattox and T. E. Dickerson, of Warm Springs.

Apple Jelly Sunday March 8, 1970

On Sunday, March 8, 1970, the Appomattox County Jaycees will participate with the Virginia Jaycees in a state-wide project to help the mentally ill and retarded children of Virginia. According to G. H. Jamerson Jr, local chairman, mental illness is the most common reason for hospitalization of patients. Jaycees believe the general public in Virginia needs to better understand the problems of mental illness. Further, there are approximately 70,000 retarded children in Virginia. We want to help provide these children recreational opportunities which would otherwise not be available to them.

We can help mentally ill and retarded children by providing a Camp Virginia Jaycee in conjunction with the Virginia Association for Mental Health (VAMH). The recommended property will cost about $25,-500. Improvements will cost about $125,000. This is why all Jaycee chapters in Virginia are participating to make this project a success.

This camp facility will be available to all mentally ill and retarded children in Virginia regardless of race, creed or religion, or ability to pay. Those children whose families can pay will be asked to and those who cannot afford the cost of the camp (about $75 per week) will be offered assistance.

Appomattox County Jaycees will be selling jars of apple jelly for $1.00 each with the proceeds going to Camp Virginia Jaycees.

Everybody Helped In Sunday's Fire

Doug Hall (with fire rake) and several companions were among many volunteers who battled a stubborn grass fire Sunday afternoon about 12:30 at what was formerly the golf course in Appomattox adjacent to Route 460. Fire company volunteers from Appomattox, Concord and Gladstone all joined in as brisk winds fanned the flames over an area of several acres extending from a wooded area near the pond on the Ferguson land past the Dairy Queen and eastward to the Usry Mobile Home sales location.
